

Report Kissinger soon to become secretary of state

HENRY A. KISSINGER

The News In Brief

OVERLAND, Mo. (AP) — Smoke continued to pour from the blackened sixth floor of the Military Personnel Record Center today, and officials said it may be Wednesday before they can enter to assess the damage.

Firemen from at least 20 suburban St. Louis departments still were spraying water into the top story, where the records of 20 million former members of the Army and Air Force were stored.

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Railroad crews, assisted by firemen spreading foam, worked through the night to clean up derailment wreckage that included three cars containing poisonous and explosive gases.

Police said the threat to the general public was minimal and permitted most people evacuated from the area earlier to return to their homes.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A strong earthquake was recorded early today in the Kunlun Mountains of western China by the seismographic station here and others around the world.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz and House leaders are looking for a compromise farm bill.

Meanwhile, sources close to the House Agriculture Committee suggested leading options include cutting the pending four-year bill to a two-year version that would ease its federal budget impact, or extend the existing 1970 law one year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has voted a $232 million reduction in President Nixon's $632 million request for Indochina reconstruction aid, excluding North Vietnam.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A modified version of the telephone rate increase sought by Ohio Bell for nearly two years has been accepted by most of the objectors to the original proposal.

But Cleveland has vowed to fight the compromise settlement, which would hike monthly residential bills by 18 per cent and would increase the firm's annual revenue by $98 million.

Ohio Bell's original proposal would have produced an additional $166 million.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm groups mostly say that the price freeze is damaging agriculture each day it continues, while many urban members of Congress say the White House should keep being tough if it wants to curb inflation.

The National Council of Cooperatives is among many farm groups which have denounced the freeze.

'Wolf Man' Lon Chaney dies at 67

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Lon Chaney Jr., the fifth major film star to die within two weeks, had hoped that his death would pass relatively unnoticed.

"His last wish was that his death receive no publicity," a friend said Friday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Will Henry A. Kissinger take over for William P. Rogers as secretary of state within a few months?

CBS raised that possibility Friday with a report that President Nixon has privately discussed the prospect of moving his national security adviser into Rogers' job.

The White House did not deny the report, thereby giving it some room to breathe, but did not substantiate it, either. Kissinger was out of touch and a spokesman for Rogers declined to comment.

The secretary of state was flying to Japan for important talks with Japanese leaders about relations with the United States.

One of his tasks is to discuss a role for the Japanese in the new Atlantic relationship that Kissinger is trying to shape with the United States' allies in Europe.

Another is to soothe the sensibilities of Japanese leaders who believe Washington did not consult Tokyo adequately before warming up to Communist China and devaluing the dollar.

The CBS report by White House correspondent Dan Rather could hurt Rogers' mission if the Japanese find it credible.

Kissinger, meanwhile, was quoted by CBS as saying: "The President has not discussed that with me."

And Gerald L. Warren, the deputy press secretary, said: "We would not have a comment on a report such as that ... We don't comment on speculative stories."

Warren's response to the AP's inquiry was considerably short of a denial. Rogers is a close friend of Nixon and has been secretary of state from the start of the first term in 1969. At various times he was reported heading for the Supreme Court or to be the attorney general, but the reports proved to be unfounded.

Kissinger came to the Nixon administration from the academic world and has been the principal theoretician in the field of Nixon foreign policy.

The main development has been closer relations with the Soviet Union and diplomatic overtures to Peking.

Kissinger also played a leading role in negotiating a ceasefire in Vietnam and the sputtering attempts to halt the fighting in Cambodia and Laos.

In recent months Rogers has taken on prominent assignments. He toured Latin America in May, preaching the administration doctrine that the old interventionist days are past. He represented the United States in Helsinki this month in the first phase of the European security conference. And now he is headed for Japan and Korea.

Food price spiral seen

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — General Foods Corp. chairman C. W. Cook says the sudden removal of government price restraints would make "all hell break loose."

"I think the increases in prices, especially in food, would be so explosive that the reaction of this country would be something that politically we couldn't accept," said Cook, head of one of the nation's largest food-producing and distributing firms.

"Even excellent crop prospects will not be sufficient to curb this spiral significantly," Cook said in an interview on Friday.

"For these reasons, I and many of my industry colleagues feel food prices are destined to rise sharply this year, regardless of provisions for control which may be incorporated into Phase 4 regulations. We believe the consuming public should be made aware of this distasteful prospect now."

Nominees confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee has approved the nominations of John L. McLucas to be secretary of the Air Force and Gen. George Brown to be Air Force chief of staff.

Chaney's wife of 36 years, former model Patsy Beck, declined to specify the cause of death or even disclose funeral plans.

Chaney, 67, was preceded in death over the past two weeks by four other motion picture stars, Joe E. Brown, Betty Grable, Veronica Lake and Robert Ryan.

Chaney, known for such diverse roles as the Wolf Man and the sensitive but mentally retarded Lennie in the 1939 production of John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men," died Thursday at his home.

Friends said his last weeks were spent in "agony" stemming from a series of recent illnesses. Chaney had not performed publicly for several years.

His father, Lon Chaney Sr., was a star of the silent film era known as the "man of a thousand faces." Before his death in 1930, the senior Chaney told his son, "Better be paid for being ugly than starve to death trying to be handsome."

"I've played 'em all," the younger Chaney once said. "Most of 'em were the second time around—Frankenstein, the mummy, Dracula. But the Wolf Man was mine, all alone. I played him six times."

Nixon said doing better

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was reported improved today after spending "a reasonably" rested night in Bethesda Naval Medical Center where he was admitted two days ago with viral pneumonia.

The pains of the right chest which the President experienced Thursday and Friday lessened during the night, the hospital reported.

In addition, his temperature dropped from a high 102 to 100 at midnight, the hospital said.

"He required minimal pain medication and rested reasonably well during the night and was still asleep at 7:30 a.m. EDT," the report on his condition said.

Nixon was admitted to the hospital at 9:15 p.m. Thursday after his personal physician Dr. Walter Tkach determined in an examination that the President had a viral condition.

Doctors at the center reported Friday that the President was suffering from severe pains in the right chest which they said showed a continuing evidence of infection.

However, they said they had determined that the pain was not the kind associated with coronary artery or heart disease.

They recommended therapy and estimated that the President would be hospitalized for seven to 10 days.

Finance chief resigns post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan accepted with "deep regret" Friday the resignation of acting Finance Director Robert Baker.

The 30-year-old Baker, named to the post in January when Harold Hovey resigned, is quitting to return to private law practice in his native Cleveland.

Alaska pipeline delay rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has refused to delay construction of the Alaska oil pipeline for a study of a possible alternate route across Canada.

The vote was a defeat for environmentalists who are trying to block the project.

Sponsors of the Alaska route said any further delay would aggravate the current energy crisis. Environmentalists want the pipeline re-routed through the MacKenzie River valley in Canada.

The Senate voted 61 to 29 Friday to defeat an amendment by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., to put off construction for a year.

Mondale sought the delay to permit the National Academy of Sciences to compare the environmental, economic and national security aspects of the two pipeline routes and permit the administration to begin negotiations with Canada for construction permits.

The vote virtually killed all hopes of environmentalists to block construction of the controversial Alaska pipeline through legislation.

Still pending is a suit by the Wilderness Society and other conservation groups challenging the federal government's claim that it gave sufficient study to the Canadian route before rejecting it.

Mondale tried to attach his amendment to a bill by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that would remove legal barriers to the pipeline's right-of-way across federal lands.

A U.S. District Court earlier ruled that the federal government violated the law in granting the oil companies building the pipeline a right-of-way greater than the 50-feet permitted by law.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even a flood of news stories about Watergate failed to arouse President Nixon's suspicions that the White House was involved in the scandal, presidential aide Richard A. Moore testified.

The white-haired, quiet-spoken Moore said Friday that he, too, discounted news accounts of the scandal until around March 1, when his own suspicions began to grow.

Still, he waited nearly a month before urging White House counsel John W. Dean III to tell the President about the cover-up and attempts to extort hush money from presidential aides, Moore said.

"I did not feel that I had anything but hearsay and gossip and rumor, but I sure was beginning to worry," Moore told the Senate Watergate committee.

Moore's televised testimony filled

Securities racketeering bared

Former crime figure tells of bribing revenue agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former organized crime figure has testified he bribed Internal Revenue Service Agents from $500 to $1,000 a week to keep them from investigating his transactions in phony and stolen stocks.

Gerald Martin Zelmanowitz said Friday he found little difficulty in inducing bankers and brokers to help him speed up illegal million-dollar securities dealings.

Zelmanowitz, a California garment manufacturer, testified before a Senate subcommittee which is looking into organized crime's trafficking in lost, missing and stolen securities.

He testified he bribed IRS agents "ranging from $500 per week to as high as $1,000 per week over periods ... extending into months" so the agents would "avoid asking or seeking proof of prior American ownership" of stolen stocks.

Zelmanowitz was the main witness in a 1970 trial in New Jersey which convicted Angelo "Gyp" DeCarlo.

DeCarlo, identified as a leading organized crime figure, was given a presidential commutation this year after serving 21 months of a 12-year sentence for extortion.

Zelmanowitz said he disposed of stolen securities and evaded taxes on securities for DeCarlo and other organized crime figures.

The subcommittee is probing Nixon's granting of the commutation, which the White House contends was granted because DeCarlo was dying.

Zelmanowitz, 37, asked photographers not to take pictures of his face as he testified, saying he feared for his life.

"He is free, and I am hiding," said Zelmanowitz, referring to DeCarlo.

Zelmanowitz was granted immunity from prosecution in exchange for his testimony at the 1970 DeCarlo trial. The Justice Department provided him with a new name and credentials after the trial, but his cover was blown last month when his identity was discovered by investigators in a lawsuit.

Zelmanowitz told the subcommittee the Justice Department was not living up to its promise to protect him.

Pollution cleanup proposals aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency has proposed for public discussion four ways of implementing a Supreme Court decision forbidding "significant deterioration" of the nation's air quality.

However, each plan announced Friday allows lowering of air quality in areas where the air is already cleaner than required by federal standards.

The Supreme Court by a 4-4 tie vote on June 11 in effect upheld a lower court ruling forbidding any significant pollution of clear-air areas around the nation.

The alternatives are: —Establishing a maximum allowable increase for sulfur dioxide and particulate air pollution levels above 1972 levels, in areas where the 1972 levels were below federal standards.

—A ceiling on emissions for regions which have sulfur dioxide and particulate emission levels already below federal standards.

—Requiring states to determine if any new source is causing "significant deterioration." They would come up with a plan for each case but EPA would have a final review.

—Allowing states to establish clean-air havens separate from areas for development and industrial growth.

Robert W. Fri, acting EPA administrator, noted that neither the courts nor Congress has determined "what constitutes significant deterioration nor exactly how it should be prevented."

Fri said "a national policy of preventing significant deterioration, however defined and implemented, will have a substantial impact on the nature, extent and location of future industrial, commercial and residential development throughout the United States."

"We believe that such a far-reaching decision should be widely discussed and debated in public hearings before any final decision is made," he said.

EPA emphasized that none of the four proposals represents a "no growth" policy in terms of economic development.

The agency allowed 90 days for comments.

Life behind bars bared for panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of a committee investigating conditions at Ohio prisons learned few facts about race and sex discrimination Friday. But they heard a sobering story about day to day life behind bars.

The Ohio Advisory Committee, an arm of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, was appalled at inmate Paul Williams story of unsanitary conditions in the cafeteria at the Mansfield Reformatory.

Flies swarm over food as it travels from the kitchen to the men, and insects and even rat tails have been found in the food, Williams claimed.

Kenneth Maynard and Louis Mosley, inmates at the London Correctional Institution, said job training there was practically "non-existent" for lack of coordination between the prison and outside agencies and because the men work with obsolete or broken equipment.

Maynard said auto repair students at the prison work with 1955 and 1956 engines.

Maynard and Mosley were the only two of nine prisoners to appear before the committee in blue jeans and blue work shirts. The two also were handcuffed prior to their actual appearance.

The other seven inmates, from three other prisons, were dressed in "civilian" clothes.

Maynard said a third inmate from London, who also was scheduled to testify, may have been discouraged by prison officials from appearing. The committee did not pursue it.

The Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville got the best marks as a rehabilitative institution from those testifying Friday.

Inmate Nancy Webb described basic education, college English and home economics programs and a business course including instruction in data processing with the cooperation of a local computer firm.

Peron set to campaign for office

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Aging former dictator Juan D. Peron says it will be a "tremendous sacrifice," but he has indicated that he will run again for the presidency.

The way was prepared on Friday for Peron's election when congress accepted the resignation of President Hector J. Campora, who served only 50 days.

Peron undoubtedly will be a runaway winner in the next election, as he was in 1946 and 1952, and he will have a Peronist-dominated parliament. The constitution requires another election within 30 days.

About 12 hours after Campora resigned, the 77-year-old ex-president made an emotional nationwide television speech.

—Presidential counselor Anne Armstrong said she believes Nixon will avoid a confrontation with the committee. She said she thinks "the President has taken every possible step forward for full disclosure."

Mrs. Armstrong, speaking in Tallahassee, Fla., said the White House has become more receptive to outside ideas because of the scandal.

—Nixon donor W. Clement Stone said the President is a man of integrity who has made some mistakes in judgment by trusting aides who deceived him.

Stone, interviewed in Chicago, said he has given a total of $5 million to Nixon's last two presidential campaigns. He said he would have given more if needed.

In his Senate testimony Moore repeatedly said he firmly believes the (Please turn to Page 12)

the entire day and he was recalled for a third day when the hearings resume Monday. His appearance was suggested by the White House to give another version of events Dean testified about.

Moore is scheduled to be followed by Herbert W. Kalmbach, once Nixon's personal attorney. Kalmbach allegedly paid $210,000 to purchase silence from the Watergate defendants.

In other Watergate developments Friday: —Watergate committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., said he regrets Nixon's bout with viral pneumonia, but wants to follow through with their scheduled meeting as soon as possible.

White House spokesmen said the meeting won't take place while Nixon is in the hospital. Ervin said that if Nixon continues to insist on keeping presidential papers from the committee, that the panel will issue a subpoena for them.

—Ervin again called on Nixon to testify about the accusations against him. He said "of all the inhabitants of the earth" the President is the best qualified to answer Dean's accusations that he discussed hush money and a clemency offer as part of the cover-up plot.

—Science Magazine reported that the White House considered cutting off federal research funds to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a political reprisal against its president, Jerome B. Wiesner. The magazine said it learned of the plan—never carried out—from two White House memoranda, one of them written to Nixon by former aide John D. Ehrlichman.

RECOGNIZE THIS? — The area pictured above was the setting for the photograph which appeared in the Record-Herald a week ago. The collection of junk, trash, and abandoned appliances which littered the site have been compacted and covered in accord with EPA guidelines. (Record-Herald photos by George Malek)

ALL THAT REMAINS — This dumping area at the Fayette County Landfill is all that remains of the 300-foot wall of open solid waste that existed a month ago. Although still slightly larger than the area called for in the engineer's plan, it is a vast improvement of the past condition, according to EPA officials.

EPA approves landfill operation

A return to the Fayette County Landfill by the Environmental Protection Agency produced a very favorable response from the EPA. In a letter to the Board of Health the agency stated that "We are pleased to report that the approved plan of operation for this landfill is being restored."

The large open face of waste was nearly covered and this is the most important single factor in the efficient operation of the fill area, according to EPA officials. Confining the daily operating face to a small area greatly decreased the output of offensive odors and litter, and discourages the harboring of insects and rodents.

The papers and other light weight materials which had littered the area had been picked up, and there was adequate manpower to operate the site cleanly.

The EPA did suggest that the trash could be compacted to an even greater degree, thus reducing the amount of leachate (polluted water) production. This would also utilize the space available to the best possible economic advantage.

The EPA will periodically check the site. The Landfill is open from 8 until 4:30 p.m. daily and from 8 until 10 a.m. Saturday.

Down On The Farm

Saturday, July 14, 1973

Washington C.H. (O.) Record-Herald - Page 2

Livestock producers advised to continue production

One of the industry's leaders urges livestock producers to think twice before "they give up a winner."

Harold Heinold, president of the world's largest hog marketing organization, said farmers who are moving out of hog and cattle production because of present conditions are giving up operations that have proven the most profitable over the years.

He cited a University of Illinois summary of farm business records that shows hog producers to have averaged some $4,000 a year more than grain farmers over the past seven years.

"It is difficult to believe that after 1972 — one of the best years hog and cattle producers have ever had — they would consider reducing livestock operations. Yet, there seems to be a trend in this direction.

"Most of it is due to confusion now existing in the livestock business because of ceiling prices at the wholesale level, high feed costs, and the threat of price controls at the farm level," Heinold said. "There's a feeling of uncertainty in the livestock industry."

"Hidden by the current problems are the factors a livestock producer should really consider. We have the greatest demand ever for our products. Secondly, the man who has stayed with livestock production has fared better over the years than those in other segments of agriculture.

Livestock feeders weighing high feed cost alternatives

Anyone feeding livestock knows that high feed costs are biting into or eating up profits. Before leaping out of the business, though, better consider some reasoning by Ohio State University Extension Economists Richard Duvick and John Moore.

"It's important for the above-average operator to consider the long-run as well as the short-run outlook. Less efficient operators may be more dependent on the short-run consequences of high feed prices. "Any operators who plan to remain in the livestock business will want to continue production, so as to retain the breeding stock built up. Operators with marginal brood stock or those who planned to get out of livestock shortly may do well to sell out and take advantage of the high livestock prices. "This short-run crisis is likely to exert supply and demand pressures which will cause more feed to be produced, at a lower price, and fewer livestockmen may decide to weather the storm. Higher livestock prices and higher net profits would then result to those who remain.

"In the long-run, all costs must be covered, both variable(out-of-pocket cash costs) and fixed (over-head) costs. In the short-run, only variable costs need be covered. However, not covering fixed costs in the short-run may be critical for some operators who purchase most of their feed, are in heavy debt, or are inefficient."

Duvick and Moore make the following suggestions to all types of livestock producers:

"Consider changes in the ration to utilize least-cost feed combinations without sacrificing gains (computerized ration to find the lowest-cost combination of feeds can determine a balanced ration, often reducing feed costs 5 to 20 per cent.)

"Screen or cull closer than usual. "Try to cut down on feed losses, particularly those due to rodents and birds; improper feeder adjustment; and over-feeding of brood animals (during much of the gestation period, feed can be saved without cutting the level of overall production).

"Don't cut the amount and quality of feed to the extent that production levels are lowered. Many times, the previous high production level cannot be regained, and lower total production and profits result.

"Be sure you know your actual out-of-pocket costs. Purchased feed cost is the major change in expenses from a year ago. It is a cash cost and is the cost you need to be most concerned about. The building, machinery, labor, and other fixed costs often occur even if you sell the livestock."

For animals which can utilize large amounts of roughage, the economists suggest placing high priority on making top quality forage; substituting urea protein to the maximum without harming palatability; and considering emergency grasses such as sudans and sorghum, if it gets too late for corn.

Steam threshers to be exhibited

Miami Valley Steam Threshers are already moving equipment to Madison County Fairgrounds, London, for their 24th annual reunion beginning July 19. On tap for the four days are such items as a steam-powered corn popper, an operating saw and veneer mill, rock crusher and a calliope, plus more than 150 other pieces of steam and gas equipment.

Billed in 1972 as Ohio's largest steam show, this year's reunion has already had requests for more space than last year. Officers of the group point out that the show does not provide a carnival atmosphere but is designed for families wishing to take a look backward in time.

In addition to the steam traction engines, gas tractors and engines, steam and gas models and doodlebugs, visitors can see a Conestoga wagon that actually took part in the westward trek, pulled by oxen in a triple hitch. Flea markets will be open and there will be demonstrations of arts and crafts. On July 20 there will be a two-hour parade in London's downtown area featuring the antique farm equipment, bands, queens, marchers, floats.

Everything on the grounds can be seen for the price of admission at $1 for adults with children under 14 years of age admitted free. Grandstand entertainment, square dancing, auctions, antique car shows, barbershop quartet competition, and a fiddlers' contest are other highlights.

Many families will be camping at the fairgrounds during the show, July 19, 20, 21 and 22. London is accessible from I-70, I-71, U.S. 42, U.S. 40, Ohio 38 and Ohio 36.

Processing tomato field day cancelled

Wooster — Unseasonably wet weather this spring has forced cancellation of the Processing Tomato Field Day scheduled to be held August 8 at the Northwestern Branch of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center near Custar. Cancellation of the event has been announced by OARDC Director Roy M. Kottman.

Farmers who plan to reseed alfalfa fields this summer should begin now to select soils in which alfalfa has a good chance to survive. Among other qualifications, those fields need adequate drainage, the agronomist insists.

Wet conditions during 1972 and the spring of 1973 have pointed out the relative natural drainage conditions of different fields. Selecting fields with adequate natural drainage or improving the drainage in a field will go a long way toward providing efficient alfalfa production, Bone insists.

If providing tile drainage is needed, present drainage recommendations for tile spacing and depth based on soil type is in the "1973 Ohio Drainage Guide," available through local Soil Conservation Districts or the county Cooperative Extension Office offices. In order to determine the degree of saturation that may occur in certain soils, Bone suggests that farmers secure soil maps available through Soil and Water Conservation districts or Extension offices. Once the farmer had identified the soil type number, he can find information about that soil type in the soil section of the 1972-73 Ohio Agronomy Guide, Extension Bulletin 472. Soils with ratings of somewhat poorly, poorly, or very poorly drained will need drainage improvements if they are to support alfalfa in even normal-rainfall years.

Pollution costly to U.S. business

NEW YORK (AP) — American business estimates it needs to invest $22.3 billion — or 3.5 times what it is planning to spend this year — to bring existing facilities up to the present pollution control standards. This was the key finding of McGraw-Hill's Sixth Annual Survey of Pollution Control Expenditures.

"This year's total investment in pollution abatement will represent 5.9 per cent, or $6.2 billion, of all capital spending — up from 5.1 per cent in 1972," reports Douglas Greenwald, McGraw-Hill's chief economist. "Total outlays in the anti-pollution area are expected to remain near the 6 per cent mark into 1976," he added.

One of the least known facts in modern American agriculture is that farmers for years have sought their profits through increased production and efficiency rather than in higher prices.

Price pinch cuts variety for food shoppers

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Consumers may find some of their favorite brands missing from supermarket shelves these days, but no one is likely to go hungry because of food shortages.

That's the finding of an Associated Press survey of major retailers across the country.

Generally, the larger chains are in better shape than smaller companies which report some problems finding specific items—particularly fresh fruit and vegetables.

There are scattered shortages of some items—parsley is hard to find in Chicago, for example, and there's no pork loin at an Atlanta chain—but most things are available.

Retailers say the situation really depends on what happens after the expiration of the 60-day price freeze that President Nixon announced on June 13.

Officials of the Cost of Living Council said on Thursday that they wanted to remove food price controls as soon as possible. They denied, however, that the freeze was causing chaos in the industry.

At the same time, the administration announced new controls on the export of 41 agricultural items. The government had embargoed exports of soybeans and cottonseed and their products last week.

Discussing reports of food shortages, Bernard Lipskin of Food Fair, one of the top 10 retailers in the nation in terms of sales, said: "Our most recent check indicated that the condition was not a serious one.... As of the moment, as far as the consumer is concerned, I think they'll find the variety of merchandise to which they're accustomed...."

"But the shortages could develop into a serious situation unless certain changes are made. The potential shortage really depends on what type of action the government takes."

In Atlanta, a spokesman for Big Apple Super Markets, 34th in terms of sales, said several items were being sold at a loss or withdrawn from the shelves. The spokesman said strawberries, cantaloupes and radishes were unavailable. He said the store now was selling canned meat at a loss and would restock on a selective basis after current supplies run out.

The 250-member National Association of Food Chains said many retailers were discontinuing certain items and selling others at a loss.

A spokesman for Jewel Stores, with 270 outlets in the Midwest, said spinach, parsley and tube tomatoes—packaged in boxes—were not available either because the supplier couldn't afford to sell or the store couldn't afford to buy.

Tom McCasters, board chairman and president of Allied Supermarkets in Detroit, said the chain has dropped about 300 items, most of them specific brands that recently raised prices. He said the average supermarket carries about 7,000 items.

Audrey McCafferty, public relations manager for Kroger stores—the third ranked chain—said the firm was "managing to get by," but said produce handling costs have risen 7 per cent since February.

Untuned engines pollution makers

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — An untuned engine is a significant contributor to auto-related air pollution, says an oil company official.

A spark plug misfire of only 2 per cent can more than triple a car's emissions, according to W.E. MacDonald, technical services manager for the Marathon Oil Co. Most car owners, he says, don't notice even twice that amount of plug misfire and some can only notice a misfire of 20 per cent or more.

More than 96 per cent of Egypt is desert.

Weed control plots to be on display

By JOHN GRUBER

County Extension Agent Agriculture Plans are complete for a look at the corn weed control demonstration plots Monday afternoon, July 16, from 1 to 4 p.m. The plots are located on Hugh Wilson's farm on Red Bud Rd., just off Greenfield-Sabina Rd.

Wilson has been cooperating with Al Baxter, area agronomy agent, in establishing these plots. Al will be on hand Monday to discuss the results with all area farmers who are interested.

I talked with Al earlier this week and he tells me that the plots show some real variation in weed control.

It's too late to use the results of the weed control plot for this year's corn crop. But now is the time to start planning for your herbicide program for next year. Come out to the weed control plots Monday and compare the results. You might want to compare the effectiveness of your herbicide with the one you might have considered using in its place.

The crop situation in the county is somewhat less than desirable this year - to say the least. Being relatively new to Fayette County agriculture, I can't compare to previous years; however, many farmers tell me they can't remember when the corn and beans have looked this bad all over the county.

There are a few excellent looking fields of corn and beans but these seem to be the exception rather than the rule. The weather of the last week or two has been hot enough to help most of the corn along and many fields are looking better.

Many put the estimate at about 75 per cent of a normal crop of corn and beans this year. We'll have to have good weather from now on to make that or better.

Wheat harvest is nearly complete but the yields I've been hearing don't sound too good. Many yields have been in the 30 bushel range - far below normal.

THE FAYETTE COUNTY Cattlemen's Association is making plans for the annual summer Roundup. The date has been set for Friday, Aug. 10, at the Sam Marting Farm. Again this year the Roundup will be held in conjunction with the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce. We're working with Jim Dunn and the Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee to set up a tour of Mac Tools prior to the barbecue at the Marting Farm.

Tickets for the Roundup should be available next week at the Chamber Office, Extension Office or from directors of the Cattle Feeders Association.

YOU DAIRYMEN should keep in mind the open house which will be held at the Kramer Homestead on Thursday, July 19, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The farm is located three miles southwest of Plain City in Madison County.

The use of slatted floors in a total confinement dairy barn will be on display. This entirely new dairy facility, plus labor saving equipment will be explained by the builder and supplies as well as Extension dairymen and engineers.

Opinion And Comment

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Watergate outcome still anyone's guess

WASHINGTON. The still photographers are crouched just in front of the witness, a large pack ready to spring.

And when John Mitchell breaks momentarily the impassive, stolid countenance he presents to the committee and puts his hand to forehead they jump with a click of shutters.

Strung on a cable high above are a series of color-tran lights blazing down on the scene for the benefit of the television cameral, the red eyes basilisklike on the left.

This is a show, a spectacle, a performance put on as though with professional actors and professional direction.

Committee Chairman Sam Ervin squiggles his black eyebrows up and down, and how many million viewers see this unconscious (or conscious) bit of character acting the agencies that check these matters will determine.

WE HAVE HAD these shows before — once or twice even more sensational than this Watergate spectacle. In 1933 when a Senate committee was investigating the rigging of the stock market, J.P. Morgan, the banking tycoon of the century, was the witness. A shrewd public relations man suddenly put a female midget on his lap. It broke up the hearing.

No television in that primitive time, but Morgan and the midget provided a field day for the stills. So far as what the public got out of the sear hing investigation, directed by Ferdinand Pecora, one of the ablest interrogators ever to function here, the midget was the principal memory.

In my own recollection was the spectacle in 1941 when Wendell Willkie was to be fed to the lions, the lions in this instance being isolationist senators wreaking vengeance on him for supporting Franklin Roosevelt's policy of aiding the beleaguered Allies.

The Senate Caucus Room then, as today, was packed to the rafters. Willkie made the headlines by dismissing as "campaign oratory" what he had said in the 1940 campaign about staying out of foreign wars.

THE GREATEST spectacle in recent times was the Army-McCarthy set-to. That was followed on television with the same fascination as Watergate. Joe McCarthy, the brash street fighter from Wisconsin, was out to get the top-brass civilian and military. CBS is shrewdly doing a replay of that big show.

At this stage the fascination with Watergate seems a national obsession. On the first floor of the Senate Office Building long lines wait for admission to the Caucus Room. Under the careful scrutiny of guards who have searched purses and brief cases for concealed weapons the lines snake up the marble staircase. It will be a long wait, since once inside the lucky few stay put.

Outside in Washington's steamy heat the taxi driver has his car radio tuned to the hearing. "I listen to every minute of it," he says. "I guess that fellow Mitchell's going to be on all week and when he's finished we won't know any more than when he started."

What is surprising about the obsession is that most of the performers are so predictable. One could be sure, as Stewart Alsop put it in a cogent column, that John W. Dean 3d would weave his sticky spider's web around the President.

Mitchell was predictable as a calculating, highly successful lawyer with a faltering memory. That was just how he appeared, his rotund monotone putting a damper of dullness on his testimony.

PASSING the rear of the White House there is a long line of vacationers dressed in abbreviated summer costumes waiting to get in for a glimpse of the public rooms. The line reaches back around the Executive Office Building. These patient families, many of them with small children, want to see the President's house — they want to see where their President lives.

We will survive this latest scandal presented as a spectacle, the optimists believe, as we survived those other spectacles.

After all, out of the Pecora investigation into the banking and stock scandals of the booming '20s came the laws governing security transactions and the Securities and Exchange Commission. The televised hearings helped to end McCarthy and McCarthyism.

At the present stage it is a difficult, if not impossible, to see how Watergate will end. The pervasive feeling in this capital is one of drift and uncertainty.

The show goes on, but when the curtain line will come and whether it will be delivered by the President no one knows.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SUNDAY, JULY 15

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Some upsets indicated but, if you'll take them in stride and maintain an even disposition, day's accomplishments will far exceed your expectations.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

A good day for planning next week's program. Be especially astute in mapping out budget requirements. You may be faced with some unforeseen expense.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

One of the few days when mixing business and pleasure WILL pay off. In fact, you may make an important business contact at a social gathering.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

A ticklish family problem can now be solved — IF you don't force issues. A bit of your natural charm and persuasiveness will do the trick.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Don't discuss financial or domestic problems with friends. Some folks are talking out of turn now and may pass on information you'd rather keep "in the family."

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Fine Mercury influences. Be ready to act when an opportunity of worth appears. You make friends easily; should turn this gift to advantage.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Some difficulties possible, but you can avoid most if you will keep away from excitable folks who leave you emotionally drained. Spend time pursuing a hobby that's fun.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Don't let friends persuade you to spend too much on entertainment. By mid-week, you'd regret it. Otherwise, all should go well.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You now have a chance to create a truly great impression of yourself. Don't lose out by flouting convention or otherwise being indiscreet.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

If intuition strongly dictates, now's the time to start making concrete plans for that new venture. Don't launch until mid-week, however.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Unexpected complications may call for a sudden change in travel plans. Don't fret. Trip, as arranged, could have been disappointing.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Your intuition was right. A message from someone "in the know" confirms your own beliefs. Act promptly on information received.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with deep feelings, unusual sensitivity and a tremendous compassion for your fellowmen. More outgoing than most persons born under your Sign, you could be a great success in public life; could also excel in the theater. You are less conventional than most Cancerians, more venturesome and have greater qualities of leadership. Also, if you do not choose one of the arts as a career, should embrace one as a hobby. In the business world, you could go far as a manufacturer; in professional areas, would make an excellent lawyer, physician or diplomat.

MONDAY, JULY 16

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Favorable aspects stimulate originality and some chance-taking — IF reasonable. Don't go out on the proverbial limb and DO avoid extremism.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Make your schedule a flexible one. There are possibilities of changes and variations in certain situations — all promising to be beneficial.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Excellent Mercury influences. Especially favored: scientific pursuits, research, educational interests, outdoor activities, communications generally.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

You may encounter some natural differences of opinion, so adjustments and compromise will be in order. Don't yield where matters of high principle are at stake, however.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Much competition in store. You should revel in most of the challenges offered. A fine day for capitalizing on your gifts of salesmanship and showmanship.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

A somewhat average day, yet you may accomplish more than you anticipate. Much depends upon what you take for granted and what you initiate yourself.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Some intrigue encountered in occupational circles. YOU remain discreet and keep involvement to a minimum.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You usually like to solve your own problems, but don't arbitrarily reject another's idea. It may be more practical than your own.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

This day should bring new zest into your life. Both personal and business matters governed by generous influences. Do make the most of it!

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Activities speed up now — especially in the early afternoon. Particularly favored: financial transactions, dealings in real estate.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A new work assignment may seem difficult to carry out, but a comprehensive discussion with close associates will produce useful ideas, guidance.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Your innate intuition at a peak. Good ideas will come like a "bolt from the blue." Act on them immediately.

YOU BORN TODAY are a happy, warm-hearted individual, intellectual in your leanings, and endowed with a great love of heritage and tradition. You have a deep interest in people, places and events and would make an excellent journalist or news commentator. You also have an affinity for nature and the outdoors and could become an outstanding agriculturist. You tend to be more restless than most Cancerians and this trait could lead you to travel and exploration — if you use it constructively. A mere scattering of energies through want of change, however, could hinder success.

Another View

"HE'S BEEN CARRYING ON LIKE THAT, COMRADE, EVER SINCE RETURNING FROM AMERICA."

Rail passenger rivalry

The Senate has acted in favor of open and innovative competition in rail passenger service, something greatly to be desired. This is the thrust of a measure encouraging private enterprise to establish service whereby passengers can take their automobiles with them on train journeys.

Such services have begun to catch on. The Auto-Train Corp. reports that it has carried 250,000 passengers and their cars on its run between Washington, D.C., and destinations in Florida. The firm says it expects now to establish service to Florida from Louisville, Ky., also. Previously, the enterprise had been in jeopardy because of legally authorized objections by Amtrak, the federal agency which has taken over much rail passenger service.

Some see Senate approval of this enabling measure as undermining Amtrak. Under present law only Amtrak may operate passenger-and-auto service over its routes. It can be argued that opening up this right to others weakens Amtrak at a time when it already is having troubles enough.

There is something in that, but the fostering of competition also is important. This is especially so with regard to competition which offers new inducements to travelers.

On balance, the Senate action — if approved in the House as well — should have a strengthening effect on rail passenger service.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"Bored stiff" woman needs help

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are second-time-arounders. I have never seen such stability and tranquility in a marriage.

There is only one problem: I am bored stiff! When we dated, he took me out to dinner and to movies, and we had great times, but now all he thinks of is work.

I carry his dinner to his office so he can work straight through. He eats in five minutes, thanks me, and goes back to work. When he comes home, it's bedtime, and he is too tired for anything by sleep.

He works all weekend. We NEVER go out for dinner or to a movie anymore. He says it's too expensive, which is ridiculous because we can certainly afford it.

His health is fine. (He had the company doctor examine him, that way he didn't have to pay the bill.)

I am young and pretty and full of life, but I am lonely. He says if I want to see a movie I should go without him, but it's no fun going alone.

I can just see myself ten years from now getting a divorce. Can you help me?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Fill in that communication gap with some straight talk. He's using his "work" as an excuse to isolate himself. Insist on counseling. And if he ducks that, you go alone. Your frustrations could lead to something worse than boredom.

DEAR ABBY: Over the years, my sister, who lives in another state, has been writing me letters that are filled with nothing but her illnesses, the deaths of her friends (when I don't even know) and any gossip about the family that is bad. She even rehashes the world situation, dwelling on the doom and gloom. After reading one of her letters I am so depressed I just sit and cry. I have written to her, asking her to please quit sending me such depressing letters, but it hasn't helped.

I don't want to sever our relationship completely, but I don't know how else to deal with her. I never write depressing letters to anyone. I am a happy-go-lucky person by nature, but could spread plenty of gloom if I wanted to.

I have tried not answering her letters, but she doesn't need a letter to answer. She writes once a week regardless. Please tell me what to do.

ANOTHER DAY RUINED

DEAR RUINED: If you want to let your sister know you mean business, return her letters UNOPENED. She may be hurt and shocked, but I promise you, she'll not write any more depressing letters after that.

DEAR ABBY: A reader thought it would look "ridiculous" for a 47-year-old father to be best man at his son's wedding when the bride had selected a 21-year-old girl to be her maid of honor.

I wonder what that reader would have thought of this situation: When I was 14 years old, I was asked to be the godmother for my new-born cousin. The godfather was my 70-year-old grandfather.

According to the police report, the young girl said she saw two boys approaching in the alley off Court Street where the car was parked. She hid beneath the dash board, and moments later the windshield was shattered.

It is not known whether shots were actually fired, or if some object was thrown at the car. The boys were seen running down the alley toward East Street.

John Bane, manager of the Washington Park pool, reported that he caught a 9-year-old trying to spend a marked dollar bill that had been taken from the pool locker room.

Crashes kill 3 persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRIDAY NIGHT

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Some Cancers Yield to Drugs

More and more statistics point to the fact that some cancers are yielding with greater frequency to the attack by new and often spectacular chemicals. Patients with leukemia, cancer of the breast, cancer of the cervix, and Hodgkin's disease are being maintained in good health by single or combined chemicals. Drugs like methotrexate and one known as 5-FU are but two of the many drugs that are used to destroy cancer cells in some parts of the body. Impressive statistics that are forthcoming from hospital centers emphasize the need for early recognition and early intensive heroic treatment. The combination of early detection and the aggressive use of these drugs is most encouraging.

Sickle cell anemia, an inherited condition, is receiving concentrated attention. Before ten years ago, this disease was casually taken for granted, and even overlooked, in research projects. Today, the sickling, or crescent-shaped, deformities of the red blood cells are considered in their proper perspective of inherited diseases. At Emory University in Atlanta, Dr. A. J. Sophianopoulos has been using special drugs with anti-sickling properties to re-establish the shape and the functioning capacity of red blood cells. While this work is going on, geneticists are hard at work trying to discover why sickle cell anemia is so prevalent in particular groups of people. Eventually it is hoped that, by genetic counseling and even genetic manipulation, sickle cell anemia will be eliminated. Until then, these drugs may be effective in reducing the devitalizing aspects of this disease.

Bleeding from the esophagus, the tube that brings food from the mouth to the stomach, is a vexing medical problem.

Enlarged veins, or varices, not unlike varicose veins, are known to be responsible for some types of esophageal bleeding. At the University of Tokyo Hospital, a new and spectacular operation is being tried to control extensive bleeding from the esophagus.

Dr. Mitsuo Sugiura and Dr. Shunji Futagawa have developed and are using a surgical technique for some patients whose lives are threatened by these enlarged and bleeding veins.

Almost 100 patients have had this operation, with spectacular success. Surgeons everywhere are watching with great enthusiasm these early reports before universally accepting and duplicating this two-stage operation.

Scandal hearings

President did not find out about the coverup until March 21, the date Dean says he told Nixon of "a cancer growing on the presidency."

Dean swears he told Nixon about some aspects of the cover-up much earlier, and that the President seemed generally aware as early as Sept. 15, 1972, that efforts were being made to obstruct the course of justice.

Moore said Dean gave him no hint of having told the President before March 21, although he said Dean himself seemed increasingly concerned about the Watergate matter in the preceding weeks.

He said Dean told him of G. Gordon Liddy's original wiretapping and kidnapping scheme as early as March 1 or before, and that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former campaign aide Jeb Stuart Magruder had listened to Liddy's schemes and rejected them.

Moore said Dean told him later, around March 15, that Magruder had lied to the grand jury investigating the wiretapping and that he, Dean, intended to tell the truth if called before the panel.

Moore swore he didn't realize the truth until March 19, when Dean told him that Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt was threatening to disclose earlier White House crimes if not paid for his silence.

Ervin seemed disbelieving, asking Moore if he had read a long list of news stories giving accounts of links between the wiretapping and the Nixon campaign.

Moore said he had read them when they were published, but said he was satisfied with Nixon's public assurances that an investigation by Dean had cleared everyone in the White House and the administration.

Hughey Post faces charges

City police officers were called to assist the agents at the Legion Home. Agents indicated to police officers that the charges would be filed.

County school board to meet

Adoption of a 1974 budget and consideration of a resolution of need for a bond issue to fund a middle school top the agenda for the Fayette County Board of Education meeting Tuesday in the board's offices.

In addition to the probable approval of the resolution of need, the board also is expected to enter a formal agreement with an architect for the proposed middle school.

Several teacher resignations will be acted upon, and Superintendent Guy Foster will recommend the hiring of several teachers and coaches.

The board also will receive bids and let contracts for gasoline, fuel oil, coal and other materials, and set dates for receiving bids on various food items, insurance and other items.

Use of energy up alarmingly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Few people realize the enormous environmental impact of the nation's accelerating use of energy, the chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality told Congress this week.

Russell Train warned that to change the trend from an energy spurge to energy conservation would require vast alterations in the lifestyle of most Americans.

Train's analysis of the use of energy and the related environmental punishment was given to a joint hearing on energy conservation held by two House committees. During the week, a half-dozen congressional committees were probing some aspect of the energy crisis.

He noted that the use of energy has shot up alarmingly—30-fold since 1850 and, in the last two decades, at a rate twice that of the population growth.

"Although many people are aware of environmental damages from particular energy activities," Train said, "few realize the degree to which total energy systems affect the environment."

"Converting fossil and nuclear fuels into energy leads to air pollution, water pollution, creation of solid wastes, land disruption and aesthetic degradation," Train said.

The environment is damaged by car air pollution, thermal discharges to lakes and streams and the destruction of millions of acres of land by mining.

"Energy systems were the largest source of the 264 million tons of pollutants emitted into the air in 1970," Train said.

Cars and other forms of transportation caused over half.

KIRKPATRICK FUNERAL HOME

Dear friends,

The funeral of every person, no matter how humble was his state in life, is just as meaningful and necessary to his survivors as the funeral of a well-known personage is to his bereaved. Every man is equally important in the eyes of God. And who but God is to say which ones loved Him more, or served Him better.

Report Kissinger soon to become secretary of state

HENRY A. KISSINGER

The News In Brief

OVERLAND, Mo. (AP) — Smoke continued to pour from the blackened sixth floor of the Military Personnel Record Center today, and officials said it may be Wednesday before they can enter to assess the damage.

Firemen from at least 20 suburban St. Louis departments still were spraying water into the top story, where the records of 20 million former members of the Army and Air Force were stored.

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Railroad crews, assisted by firemen spreading foam, worked through the night to clean up derailment wreckage that included three cars containing poisonous and explosive gases.

Police said the threat to the general public was minimal and permitted most people evacuated from the area earlier to return to their homes.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A strong earthquake was recorded early today in the Kunlun Mountains of western China by the seismographic station here and others around the world.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz and House leaders are looking for a compromise farm bill.

Meanwhile, sources close to the House Agriculture Committee suggested leading options include cutting the pending four-year bill to a two-year version that would ease its federal budget impact, or extend the existing 1970 law one year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has voted a $232 million reduction in President Nixon's $632 million request for Indochina reconstruction aid, excluding North Vietnam.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A modified version of the telephone rate increase sought by Ohio Bell for nearly two years has been accepted by most of the objectors to the original proposal.

But Cleveland has vowed to fight the compromise settlement, which would hike monthly residential bills by 18 per cent and would increase the firm's annual revenue by $98 million.

Ohio Bell's original proposal would have produced an additional $166 million.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm groups mostly say that the price freeze is damaging agriculture each day it continues, while many urban members of Congress say the White House should keep being tough if it wants to curb inflation.

The National Council of Cooperatives is among many farm groups which have denounced the freeze.

'Wolf Man' Lon Chaney dies at 67

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Lon Chaney Jr., the fifth major film star to die within two weeks, had hoped that his death would pass relatively unnoticed.

"His last wish was that his death receive no publicity," a friend said Friday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Will Henry A. Kissinger take over for William P. Rogers as secretary of state within a few months?

CBS raised that possibility Friday with a report that President Nixon has privately discussed the prospect of moving his national security adviser into Rogers' job.

The White House did not deny the report, thereby giving it some room to breathe, but did not substantiate it, either. Kissinger was out of touch and a spokesman for Rogers declined to comment.

The secretary of state was flying to Japan for important talks with Japanese leaders about relations with the United States.

One of his tasks is to discuss a role for the Japanese in the new Atlantic relationship that Kissinger is trying to shape with the United States' allies in Europe.

Another is to soothe the sensibilities of Japanese leaders who believe Washington did not consult Tokyo adequately before warming up to Communist China and devaluing the dollar.

The CBS report by White House correspondent Dan Rather could hurt Rogers' mission if the Japanese find it credible.

Kissinger, meanwhile, was quoted by CBS as saying: "The President has not discussed that with me."

And Gerald L. Warren, the deputy press secretary, said: "We would not have a comment on a report such as that ... We don't comment on speculative stories."

Warren's response to the AP's inquiry was considerably short of a denial. Rogers is a close friend of Nixon and has been secretary of state from the start of the first term in 1969. At various times he was reported heading for the Supreme Court or to be the attorney general, but the reports proved to be unfounded.

Kissinger came to the Nixon administration from the academic world and has been the principal theoretician in the field of Nixon foreign policy.

The main development has been closer relations with the Soviet Union and diplomatic overtures to Peking.

Kissinger also played a leading role in negotiating a ceasefire in Vietnam and the sputtering attempts to halt the fighting in Cambodia and Laos.

In recent months Rogers has taken on prominent assignments. He toured Latin America in May, preaching the administration doctrine that the old interventionist days are past. He represented the United States in Helsinki this month in the first phase of the European security conference. And now he is headed for Japan and Korea.

Food price spiral seen

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — General Foods Corp. chairman C. W. Cook says the sudden removal of government price restraints would make "all hell break loose."

"I think the increases in prices, especially in food, would be so explosive that the reaction of this country would be something that politically we couldn't accept," said Cook, head of one of the nation's largest food-producing and distributing firms.

"Even excellent crop prospects will not be sufficient to curb this spiral significantly," Cook said in an interview on Friday.

"For these reasons, I and many of my industry colleagues feel food prices are destined to rise sharply this year, regardless of provisions for control which may be incorporated into Phase 4 regulations. We believe the consuming public should be made aware of this distasteful prospect now."

Nominees confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee has approved the nominations of John L. McLucas to be secretary of the Air Force and Gen. George Brown to be Air Force chief of staff.

Chaney's wife of 36 years, former model Patsy Beck, declined to specify the cause of death or even disclose funeral plans.

Chaney, 67, was preceded in death over the past two weeks by four other motion picture stars, Joe E. Brown, Betty Grable, Veronica Lake and Robert Ryan.

Chaney, known for such diverse roles as the Wolf Man and the sensitive but mentally retarded Lennie in the 1939 production of John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men," died Thursday at his home.

Friends said his last weeks were spent in "agony" stemming from a series of recent illnesses. Chaney had not performed publicly for several years.

His father, Lon Chaney Sr., was a star of the silent film era known as the "man of a thousand faces." Before his death in 1930, the senior Chaney told his son, "Better be paid for being ugly than starve to death trying to be handsome."

"I've played 'em all," the younger Chaney once said. "Most of 'em were the second time around—Frankenstein, the mummy, Dracula. But the Wolf Man was mine, all alone. I played him six times."

Nixon said doing better

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was reported improved today after spending "a reasonably" rested night in Bethesda Naval Medical Center where he was admitted two days ago with viral pneumonia.

The pains of the right chest which the President experienced Thursday and Friday lessened during the night, the hospital reported.

In addition, his temperature dropped from a high 102 to 100 at midnight, the hospital said.

"He required minimal pain medication and rested reasonably well during the night and was still asleep at 7:30 a.m. EDT," the report on his condition said.

Nixon was admitted to the hospital at 9:15 p.m. Thursday after his personal physician Dr. Walter Tkach determined in an examination that the President had a viral condition.

Doctors at the center reported Friday that the President was suffering from severe pains in the right chest which they said showed a continuing evidence of inflammation.

However, they said they had determined that the pain was not the kind associated with coronary artery or heart disease.

They recommended therapy and estimated that the President would be hospitalized for seven to 10 days.

Finance chief resigns post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan accepted with "deep regret" Friday the resignation of acting Finance Director Robert Baker.

The 30-year-old Baker, named to the post in January when Harold Hovey resigned, is quitting to return to private law practice in his native Cleveland.

Alaska pipeline delay rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has refused to delay construction of the Alaska oil pipeline for a study of a possible alternate route across Canada. The vote was a defeat for environmentalists who are trying to block the project.

Sponsors of the Alaska route said any further delay would aggravate the current energy crisis. Environmentalists want the pipeline re-routed through the MacKenzie River valley in Canada.

The Senate voted 61 to 29 Friday to defeat an amendment by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., to put off construction for a year.

Mondale sought the delay to permit the National Academy of Sciences to compare the environmental, economic and national security aspects of the two pipeline routes and permit the administration to begin negotiations with Canada for construction permits.

The vote virtually killed all hopes of environmentalists to block construction of the controversial Alaska pipeline through legislation.

Still pending is a suit by the Wilderness Society and other conservation groups challenging the federal government's claim that it gave sufficient study to the Canadian route before rejecting it.

Mondale tried to attach his amendment to a bill by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that would remove legal barriers to the pipeline's right-of-way across federal lands.

A U.S. District Court earlier ruled that the federal government violated the law in granting the oil companies building the pipeline a right-of-way greater than the 50-feet permitted by law.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even a flood of news stories about Watergate failed to arouse President Nixon's suspicions that the White House was involved in the scandal, presidential aide Richard A. Moore testified.

The white-haired, quiet-spoken Moore said Friday that he, too, discounted news accounts of the scandal until around March 1, when his own suspicions began to grow.

Securities racketeering bared

Former crime figure tells of bribing revenue agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former organized crime figure has testified he bribed Internal Revenue Service Agents from $500 to $1,000 a week to keep them from investigating his transactions in phony and stolen stocks.

Gerald Martin Zelmanowitz said Friday he found little difficulty in inducing bankers and brokers to help him speed up illegal million-dollar securities dealings.

Zelmanowitz, a California garment manufacturer, testified before a Senate subcommittee which is looking into organized crime's trafficking in lost, missing and stolen securities.

He testified he bribed IRS agents "ranging from $500 per week to as high as $1,000 per week over periods ... extending into months" so the agents would "avoid asking or seeking proof of prior American ownership" of stolen stocks.

Zelmanowitz was the main witness in a 1970 trial in New Jersey which convicted Angelo "Gyp" DeCarlo.

DeCarlo, identified as a leading organized crime figure, was given a presidential commutation this year after serving 21 months of a 12-year sentence for extortion.

Zelmanowitz said he disposed of stolen securities and evaded taxes on securities for DeCarlo and other organized crime figures.

The subcommittee is probing Nixon's granting of the commutation, which the White House contends was granted because DeCarlo was dying.

Zelmanowitz, 37, asked photographers not to take pictures of his face as he testified, saying he feared for his life.

"He is free, and I am hiding," said Zelmanowitz, referring to DeCarlo.

Zelmanowitz was granted immunity from prosecution in exchange for his testimony at the 1970 DeCarlo trial. The Justice Department provided him with a new name and credentials after the trial, but his cover was blown last month when his identity was discovered by investigators in a lawsuit.

Zelmanowitz told the subcommittee the Justice Department was not living up to its promise to protect him.

Pollution cleanup proposals aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency has proposed for public discussion four ways of implementing a Supreme Court decision forbidding "significant deterioration" of the nation's air quality.

However, each plan announced Friday allows lowering of air quality in areas where the air is already cleaner than required by federal standards.

The Supreme Court by a 4-4 tie vote on June 11 in effect upheld a lower court ruling forbidding any significant pollution of clear-air areas around the nation.

The alternatives are: —Establishing a maximum allowable increase for sulfur dioxide and particulate air pollution levels above 1972 levels, in areas where the 1972 levels were below federal standards.

—A ceiling on emissions for regions which have sulfur dioxide and particulate emission levels already below federal standards.

—Requiring states to determine if any new source is causing "significant deterioration." They would come up with a plan for each case but EPA would have a final review.

—Allowing states to establish clean-air havens separate from areas for development and industrial growth.

Robert W. Fri, acting EPA administrator, noted that neither the courts nor Congress has determined "what constitutes significant deterioration nor exactly how it should be prevented."

Fri said "a national policy of preventing significant deterioration, however defined and implemented, will have a substantial impact on the nature, extent and location of future industrial, commercial and residential development throughout the United States."

"We believe that such a far-reaching decision should be widely discussed and debated in public hearings before any final decision is made," he said.

EPA emphasized that none of the four proposals represents a "no growth" policy in terms of economic development.

The agency allowed 90 days for comments.

Life behind bars bared for panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of a committee investigating conditions at Ohio prisons learned few facts about race and sex discrimination Friday. But they heard a sobering story about day to day life behind bars.

The Ohio Advisory Committee, an arm of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, was appalled at inmate Paul Williams story of unsanitary conditions in the cafeteria at the Mansfield Reformatory.

Flies swarm over food as it travels from the kitchen to the men, and insects and even rat tails have been found in the food, Williams claimed.

Kenneth Maynard and Louis Mosley, inmates at the London Correctional Institution, said job training there was practically "non-existent" for lack of coordination between the prison and outside agencies and because the men work with obsolete or broken equipment.

Maynard said auto repair students at the prison work with 1955 and 1956 engines.

Maynard and Mosley were the only two of nine prisoners to appear before the committee in blue jeans and blue work shirts. The two also were handcuffed prior to their actual appearance.

The other seven inmates, from three other prisons, were dressed in "civilian" clothes.

Maynard said a third inmate from London, who also was scheduled to testify, may have been discouraged by prison officials from appearing. The committee did not pursue it.

The Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville got the best marks as a rehabilitative institution from those testifying Friday.

Inmate Nancy Webb described basic education, college English and home economics programs and a business course including instruction in data processing with the cooperation of a local computer firm.

Peron set to campaign for office

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Aging former dictator Juan D. Peron says it will be a "tremendous sacrifice," but he has indicated that he will run again for the presidency.

The way was prepared on Friday for Peron's election when congress accepted the resignation of President Hector J. Campora, who served only 50 days.

Peron undoubtedly will be a runaway winner in the next election, as he was in 1946 and 1952, and he will have a Peronist-dominated parliament. The constitution requires another election within 30 days.

About 12 hours after Campora resigned, the 77-year-old ex-president made an emotional nationwide television speech.

—Presidential counselor Anne Armstrong said she believes Nixon will avoid a confrontation with the committee. She said she thinks "the President has taken every possible step forward for full disclosure."

Mrs. Armstrong, speaking in Tallahassee, Fla., said the White House has become more receptive to outside ideas because of the scandal.

—Nixon donor W. Clement Stone said the President is a man of integrity who has made some mistakes in judgment by trusting aides who deceived him.

Stone, interviewed in Chicago, said he has given a total of $5 million to Nixon's last two presidential campaigns. He said he would have given more if needed.

In his Senate testimony Moore repeatedly said he firmly believes the FAYETTE COUNTY'S Airport has been singled out as a key point in a study of the Ohio airport program by the State of California.

At least four California representatives, including educators and students, are expected to arrive here Sunday for a week-long analysis of the Fayette Airport's effects in relation to industry and the general economy of the community.

Norman Crabtree, chief of the Ohio Division of Aviation, directed the survey team to Fayette County and its busy local airport operated by Bill and Judy Dennis.

Moore says Nixon discounted scandal stories

the entire day and he was recalled for a third day when the hearings resume Monday. His appearance was suggested by the White House to give another version of events Dean testified about.

Moore is scheduled to be followed by Herbert W. Kalmbach, once Nixon's personal attorney. Kalmbach allegedly paid $210,000 to purchase silence from the Watergate defendants.

In other Watergate developments Friday:

—Watergate committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., said he regrets Nixon's bout with viral pneumonia, but wants to follow through with their scheduled meeting as soon as possible. White House spokesmen said the meeting won't take place while Nixon is in the hospital. Ervin said that if Nixon continues to insist on keeping presidential papers from the committee, that the panel will issue a subpoena for them.

—Ervin again called on Nixon to testify about the accusations against him. He said "of all the inhabitants of the earth" the President is the best qualified to answer Dean's accusations that he discussed hush money and a clemency offer as part of the cover-up plot.

—Science Magazine reported that the White House considered cutting off federal research funds to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a political reprisal against its president, Jerome B. Wiesner. The magazine said it learned of the plan—never carried out—from two White House memoranda, one of them written to Nixon by former aide John D. Ehrlichman.

ALL THAT REMAINS — This dumping area at the Fayette County Landfill is all that remains of the 300-foot wall of open solid waste that existed a month ago. Although still slightly larger than the area called for in the engineer's plan, it is a vast improvement of the past condition, according to EPA officials.

A return to the Fayette County Landfill by the Environmental Protection Agency produced a very favorable response from the EPA. In a letter to the Board of Health the agency stated that "We are pleased to

Corn growth behind average

Rain at midweek spoiled an otherwise good week for Ohio farmers. Without the rain, farmers might have averaged better than five days in the fields. As it was, over four days were favorable statewide for the week ending July 6; one of the better showings of the season.

Hot weather, when it wasn't raining, helped row crop growth. During the month of June, 17 days were suitable for fieldwork, compared to 19 days in 1972 and 25 days in 1971. Soil moisture supplies are reported down, with 52 per cent surplus, 47 per cent adequate and one per cent short.

As of July 9, corn was in fair condition and averaged 28 inches in height, the same as last year, but still below the 5-year (1968-72) average of 34 inches.

Soybean planting continues in some areas but will largely be completed this week. Reports indicate soybeans are in fair condition and are nearly 10 inches high, slightly lower than the normal 11 inches. First cutting of alfalfa hay, is 80 per cent cut; clo-tim is 60 per cent cut.

All of the winter wheat has turned and 50 per cent of the crop is ripe. Ten per cent of the wheat harvest is finished compared to the normal 20 per cent for the date. Virtually all of the oats has turned with over 10 per cent of the crop ripe, normally 20 per cent is ripe by now. Harvest is just starting in some areas. Barley is 30 per cent harvested. Other farm activities include cultivation of row and vegetable crops, and preparing for small grain harvest.

One out of every four acres of farm crops raised in the U.S. goes to another country.

Livestock producers advised to continue production

One of the industry's leaders urges livestock producers to think twice before "they give up a winner."

Harold Heinold, president of the world's largest hog marketing organization, said farmers who are moving out of hog and cattle production because of present conditions are giving up operations that have proven the most profitable over the years.

He cited a University of Illinois summary of farm business records that shows hog producers to have averaged some $4,000 a year more than grain farmers over the past seven years.

"It is difficult to believe that after 1972 — one of the best years hog and cattle producers have ever had — they would consider reducing livestock operations. Yet, there seems to be a trend in this direction.

"Most of it is due to confusion now existing in the livestock business because of ceiling prices at the wholesale level, high feed costs, and the threat of price controls at the farm level," Heinold said. "There's a feeling of uncertainty in the livestock industry."

"Hidden by the current problems are the factors a livestock producer should really consider. We have the greatest demand ever for our products. Secondly, the man who has stayed with livestock production has fared better over the years than those in other segments of agriculture.

had been picked up, and there was adequate manpower to operate the site cleanly.

The EPA did suggest that the trash could be compacted to an even greater degree, thus reducing the amount of leachate (polluted water) production. This would also utilize the space available to the best possible economic advantage.

The EPA will periodically check the site. The Landfill is open from 8 until 4:30 p.m. daily and from 8 until 10 a.m. Saturday.

Farmers who plan to reseed alfalfa fields this summer should begin now to select soils in which alfalfa has a good chance to survive. Among other qualifications, those fields need adequate drainage, the agronomist insists.

Wet conditions during 1972 and the spring of 1973 have pointed out the relative natural drainage conditions of different fields. Selecting fields with adequate natural drainage or improving the drainage in a field will go a long way toward providing efficient alfalfa production, Bone insists.

If providing tile drainage is needed, present drainage recommendations for tile spacing and depth based on soil type is in the "1973 Ohio Drainage Guide," available through local Soil Conservation Districts or the county Cooperative Extension Office offices. In order to determine the degree of saturation that may occur in certain soils, Bone suggests that farmers secure soil maps available through Soil and Water Conservation districts or Extension offices. Once the farmer had identified the soil type number, he can find information about that soil type in the soil section of the 1972-73 Ohio Agronomy Guide, Extension Bulletin 472. Soils with ratings of somewhat poorly, poorly, or very poorly drained will need drainage improvements if they are to support alfalfa in even normal-rainfall years.

Pollution costly to U.S. business

NEW YORK (AP) — American business estimates it needs to invest $22.3 billion — or 3.5 times what it is planning to spend this year — to bring existing facilities up to the present pollution control standards. This was the key finding of McGraw-Hill's Sixth Annual Survey of Pollution Control Expenditures.

"This year's total investment in pollution abatement will represent 5.9 per cent, or $6.2 billion, of all capital spending — up from 5.1 per cent in 1972," reports Douglas Greenwald, McGraw-Hill's chief economist. "Total outlays in the anti-pollution area are expected to remain near the 6 per cent mark into 1976," he added.

One of the least known facts in modern American agriculture is that farmers for years have sought their profits through increased production and efficiency rather than in higher prices.

Livestock feeders weighing high feed cost alternatives

Anyone feeding livestock knows that high feed costs are biting into or eating up profits. Before leaping out of the business, though, better consider some reasoning by Ohio State University Extension Economists Richard Duvick and John Moore.

Steam threshers to be exhibited

Miami Valley Steam Threshers are already moving equipment to Madison County Fairgrounds, London, for their 24th annual reunion beginning July 19. On tap for the four days are such items as a steam-powered corn popper, an operating saw and veneer mill, rock crusher and a calliope, plus more than

Bad drainage is threat to alfalfa

"Lack of adequate soil drainage is a problem on two-thirds of the cropland in Ohio," says Samuel Bone, extension agronomist, Ohio State University. "Results have been not only delayed tillage and planting of many crops in 1972 and '73 but also the loss of some crops planted before last year."

There are indications that many established alfalfa stands have been lost during the fall, winter, or early spring because of wet soils. Alfalfa diseases of the crowns and roots are quite active in wet conditions. The plants are also subjected to heaving or being raised out of the soil by freezing and thawing, and the crown of the plant may be cut off during the first cutting if it is raised out of the soil, Bone explained.

Billed in 1972 as Ohio's largest steam show, this year's reunion has already had requests for more space than last year. Officers of the group point out that the show does not provide a carnival atmosphere but is designed for families wishing to take a look backward in time.

In addition to the steam traction engines, gas tractors and engines, steam and gas models and doodlebugs, visitors can see a Conestoga wagon that actually took part in the westward trek, pulled by oxen in a triple hitch. Flea markets will be open and there will be demonstrations of arts and crafts. On July 20 there will be a two-hour parade in London's downtown area featuring the antique farm equipment, bands, queens, marchers, floats.

Everything on the grounds can be seen for the price of admission at $1 for adults with children under 14 years of age admitted free. Grandstand entertainment, square dancing, auctions, antique car shows, barbershop quartet competition, and a fiddlers' contest are other highlights.

Many families will be camping at the fairgrounds during the show, July 19, 20, 21 and 22. London is accessible from I-70, I-71, U.S. 42, U.S. 40, Ohio 38 and Ohio 56.

Price pinch cuts variety for food shoppers

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Consumers may find some of their favorite brands missing from supermarket shelves these days, but no one is likely to go hungry because of food shortages.

That's the finding of an Associated Press survey of major retailers across the country.

Generally, the larger chains are in better shape than smaller companies which report some problems finding specific items—particularly fresh fruit and vegetables.

There are scattered shortages of some items—parsley is hard to find in Chicago, for example, and there's no pork loin at an Atlanta chain—but most things are available.

Retailers say the situation really depends on what happens after the expiration of the 60-day price freeze that President Nixon announced on June 13.

Officials of the Cost of Living Council said on Thursday that they wanted to remove food price controls as soon as possible. They denied, however, that the freeze was causing chaos in the industry.

At the same time, the administration announced new controls on the export of 41 agricultural items. The government had embargoed exports of soybeans and cottonseed and their products last week.

Discussing reports of food shortages, Bernard Lipskin of Food Fair, one of the top 10 retailers in the nation in terms of sales, said: "Our most recent check indicated that the condition was not a serious one.... As of the moment, as far as the consumer is concerned, I think they'll find the variety of merchandise to which they're accustomed...."

"But the shortages could develop into a serious situation unless certain changes are made. The potential shortage really depends on what type of action the government takes."

In Atlanta, a spokesman for Big Apple Super Markets, 34th in terms of sales, said several items were being sold at a loss or withdrawn from the shelves. The spokesman said strawberries, cantaloupes and radishes were unavailable. He said the store now was selling canned meat at a loss and would restock on a selective basis after current supplies run out.

The 250-member National Association of Food Chains said many retailers were discontinuing certain items and selling others at a loss.

A spokesman for Jewel Stores, with 270 outlets in the Midwest, said spinach, parsley and tube tomatoes—packaged in boxes—were not available either because the supplier couldn't afford to sell or the store couldn't afford to buy.

Tom McMasters, board chairman and president of Allied Supermarkets in Detroit, said the chain has dropped about 300 items, most of them specific brands that recently raised prices. He said the average supermarket carries about 7,000 items.

Audrey McCafferty, public relations manager for Kroger stores—the third ranked chain—said the firm was "managing to get by," but said produce handling costs have risen 7 per cent since February.

Untuned engines pollution makers

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — An untuned engine is a significant contributor to auto-related air pollution, says an oil company official.

A spark plug misfire of only 2 per cent can more than triple a car's emissions, according to W.E. MacDonald, technical services manager for the Marathon Oil Co. Most car owners, he says, don't notice even twice that amount of plug misfire and some can only notice a misfire of 20 per cent or more.

Weed control plots to be on display

By JOHN GRUBER
County Extension Agent Agriculture
Plans are complete for a look at the corn weed control demonstration plots Monday afternoon, July 16, from 1 to 4 p.m. The plots are located on Hugh Wilson's farm on Red Bud Rd., just off Greenfield-Sabina Rd.

Wilson has been cooperating with Al Baxter, area agronomy agent, in establishing these plots. Al will be on hand Monday to discuss the results with all area farmers who are interested.

I talked with Al earlier this week and he tells me that the plots show some real variation in weed control.

It's too late to use the results of the weed control plot for this year's corn crop. But now is the time to start planning for your herbicide program for next year. Come out to the weed control plots Monday and compare the results. You might want to compare the effectiveness of your herbicide with the one you might have considered using in its place.

The crop situation in the county is somewhat less than desirable this year - to say the least. Being relatively new to Fayette County agriculture, I can't compare to previous years; however, many farmers tell me they can't remember when the corn and beans have looked this bad all over the county.

There are a few excellent looking fields of corn and beans but these seem to be the exception rather than the rule. The weather of the last week or two has been hot enough to help most of the corn along and many fields are looking better.

Many put the estimate at about 75 per cent of a normal crop of corn and beans this year. We'll have to have good weather from now on to make that or better.

Wheat harvest is nearly complete but the yields I've been hearing don't sound too good. Many yields have been in the 30 bushel range - far below normal.

THE FAYETTE COUNTY Cattlefeeders Association is making plans for the annual summer Roundup. The date has been set for Friday, Aug. 10, at the Sam Marting Farm. Again this year the Roundup will be held in conjunction with the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce. We're working with Jim Dunn and the Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee to set up a tour of Mac Tools prior to the barbecue at the Marting Farm.

Tickets for the Roundup should be available next week at the Chamber Office, Extension Office or from directors of the Cattle Feeders Association.

YOU DAIRYMEN should keep in mind the open house which will be held at the Kramer Homestead on Thursday, July 19, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The farm is located three miles southwest of Plain City in Madison County.

The use of slatted floors in a total confinement dairy barn will be on display. This entirely new dairy facility, plus labor saving equipment will be explained by the builder and supplies as well as Extension dairymen and engineers.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Watergate outcome still anyone's guess

WASHINGTON, The still photographers are crouched just in front of the witness, a large pack ready to spring.

And when John Mitchell breaks momentarily the impassive, stolid countenance he presents to the committee and puts his hand to forehead they jump with a click of shutters.

Strung on a cable high above are a series of color-tran lights blazing down on the scene for the benefit of the television cameral, the red eyes basilisklike on the left.

This is a show, a spectacle, a performance put on as though with professional actors and professional direction.

Committee Chairman Sam Ervin squiggles his black eyebrows up and down, and how many million viewers see this unconscious (or conscious) bit of character acting the agencies that check these matters will determine.

WE HAVE HAD these shows before — once or twice even more sensational than this Watergate spectacle. In 1933 when a Senate committee was investigating the rigging of the stock market, J.P. Morgan, the banking tycoon of the century, was the witness. A shrewd public relations man suddenly put a female midget on his lap. It broke up the hearing.

No television in that primitive time, but Morgan and the midget provided a field day for the stills. So far as what the public got out of the sear hing investigation, directed by Ferdinand Pecora, one of the ablest interrogators ever to function here, the midget was the principal memory.

In my own recollection was the spectacle in 1941 when Wendell Willkie was to be fed to the lions, the lions in this instance being isolationist senators wreaking vengeance on him for supporting Franklin Roosevelt's policy of aiding the beleaguered Allies.

The Senate Caucus Room then, as today, was packed to the rafters. Willkie made the headlines by dismissing as "campaign oratory" what he had said in the 1940 campaign about staying out of foreign wars.

THE GREATEST spectacle in recent times was the Army-McCarthy set-to. That was followed on television with the same fascination as Watergate. Joe McCarthy, the brash street fighter from Wisconsin, was out to get the top-brass civilian and military. CBS is shrewdly doing a replay of that big show.

At this stage the fascination with Watergate seems a national obsession.

On the first floor of the Senate Office Building long lines wait for admission to the Caucus Room. Under the careful scrutiny of guards who have searched purses and brief cases for concealed weapons the lines snake up the marble staircase. It will be a long wait, since once inside the lucky few stay put.

Outside in Washington's steamy heat the taxi driver has his car radio tuned to the hearing. "I listen to every minute of it," he says. "I guess that fellow Mitchell's going to be on all week and when he's finished we won't know any more than when he started."

What is surprising about the obsession is that most of the performers are so predictable. One could be sure, as Stewart Alsop put it in a cogent column, that John W. Dean 3d would weave his sticky spider's web around the President.

Mitchell was predictable as a calculating, highly successful lawyer with a faltering memory. That was just how he appeared, his rotund monotone putting a damper of dullness on his testimony.

PASSING the rear of the White House there is a long line of vacationers dressed in abbreviated summer costumes waiting to get in for a glimpse of the public rooms. The line reaches back around the Executive Office Building. These patient families, many of them with small children, want to see the President's house — they want to see where their President lives.

We will survive this latest scandal presented as a spectacle, the optimists believe, as we survived those other spectacles.

After all, out of the Pecora investigation into the banking and stock scandals of the booming '20s came the laws governing security transactions and the Securities and Exchange Commission. The televised hearings helped to end McCarthy and McCarthyism.

At the present stage it is a difficult, if not impossible, to see how Watergate will end. The pervasive feeling in this capital is one of drift and uncertainty.

The show goes on, but when the curtain line will come and whether it will be delivered by the President no one knows.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SUNDAY, JULY 15

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Some upsets indicated but, if you'll take them in stride and maintain an even disposition, day's accomplishments will far exceed your expectations.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

A good day for planning next week's program. Be especially astute in mapping out budget requirements. You may be faced with some unforeseen expense.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

One of the few days when mixing business and pleasure WILL pay off. In fact, you may make an important business contact at a social gathering.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

A ticklish family problem can now be solved — IF you don't force issues. A bit of your natural charm and persuasiveness will do the trick.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Don't discuss financial or domestic problems with friends. Some folks are talking out of turn now and may pass on information you'd rather keep "in the family."

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Fine Mercury influences. Be ready to act when an opportunity of worth appears. You make friends easily; should turn this gift to advantage.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Some difficulties possible, but you can avoid most if you will keep away from excitable folks who leave you emotionally drained. Spend time pursuing a hobby that's fun.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Don't let friends persuade you to spend too much on entertainment. By mid-week, you'd regret it. Otherwise, all should go well.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You now have a chance to create a truly great impression of yourself. Don't lose out by flouting convention or otherwise being indiscreet.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

If intuition strongly dictates, now's the time to start making concrete plans for that new venture. Don't launch until mid-week, however.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Unexpected complications may call for a sudden change in travel plans. Don't fret. Trip, as arranged, could have been disappointing.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Your intuition was right. A message from someone "in the know" confirms your own beliefs. Act promptly on information received.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with deep feelings, unusual sensitivity and a tremendous compassion for your fellowmen. More outgoing than most persons born under your Sign, you could be a great success in public life; could also excel in the theater. You are less conventional than most Cancerians, more venturesome and have greater qualities of leadership. Also, you have decided artistic talents and, if you do not choose one of the arts as a career, should embrace one as a hobby. In the business world, you could go far as a manufacturer; in professional areas, would make an excellent lawyer, physician or diplomat.

MONDAY, JULY 16

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Favorable aspects stimulate originality and some chance-taking — IF reasonable. Don't go out on the proverbial limb and DO avoid extremism.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Make your schedule a flexible one. There are possibilities of changes and variations in certain situations — all promising to be beneficial.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Excellent Mercury influences. Especially favored: scientific pursuits, research, educational interests, outdoor activities, communications generally.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

You may encounter some natural differences of opinion, so adjustments and compromise will be in order. Don't yield where matters of high principle are at stake, however.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Much competition in store. You should revel in most of the challenges offered. A fine day for capitalizing on your gifts of salesmanship and showmanship.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

A somewhat average day, yet you may accomplish more than you anticipate. Much depends upon what you take for granted and what you initiate yourself.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Some intrigue encountered in occupational circles. YOU remain discreet and keep involvement to a minimum.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You usually like to solve your own problems, but don't arbitrarily reject another's idea. It may be more practical than your own.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

This day should bring new zest into your life. Both personal and business matters governed by generous influences. Do make the most of it!

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Activities speed up now — especially in the early afternoon. Particularly favored: financial transactions, dealings in real estate.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A new work assignment may seem difficult to carry out, but a comprehensive discussion with close associates will produce useful ideas, guidance.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Your innate intuition at a peak. Good ideas will come like a "bolt from the blue." Act on them immediately.

YOU BORN TODAY are a happy, warm-hearted individual, intellectual in your leanings, and endowed with a great love of heritage and tradition. You have a deep interest in people, places and events and would make an excellent journalist or news commentator. You also have an affinity for nature and the outdoors and could become an outstanding agriculturist. You tend to be more restless than most Cancerians and this trait could lead you to travel and exploration — if you use it constructively. A mere scattering of energies through want of change, however, could hinder success.

"HE'S BEEN CARRYING ON LIKE THAT, COMRADE, EVER SINCE RETURNING FROM AMERICA."

Rail passenger rivalry

The Senate has acted in favor of open and innovative competition in rail passenger service, something greatly to be desired. This is the thrust of a measure encouraging private enterprise to establish service whereby passengers can take their automobiles with them on train journeys.

Such services have begun to catch on. The Auto-Train Corp. reports that it has carried 250,000 passengers and their cars on its run between Washington, D.C., and destinations in Florida. The firm says it expects now to establish service to Florida from Louisville, Ky., also. Previously, the enterprise had been in jeopardy because of legally authorized objections by Amtrak, the federal agency which has taken over much rail passenger service.

Some see Senate approval of this enabling measure as undermining Amtrak. Under present law only Amtrak may operate passenger-and-auto service over its routes. It can be argued that opening up this right to others weakens Amtrak at a time when it already is having troubles enough.

There is something in that, but the fostering of competition also is important. This is especially so with regard to competition which offers new inducements to travelers.

On balance, the Senate action — if approved in the House as well — should have a strengthening effect on rail passenger service.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"Bored stiff" woman needs help

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are second-time-arounders. I have never seen such stability and tranquility in a marriage.

There is only one problem: I am bored stiff! When we dated, he took me out to dinner and to movies, and we had great times, but now all he thinks of is work.

I carry his dinner to his office so he can work straight through. He eats in five minutes, thanks me, and goes back to work. When he comes home, it's bedtime, and he is too tired for anything by sleep.

He works all weekend. We NEVER go out for dinner or to a movie anymore. He says it's too expensive, which is ridiculous because we can certainly afford it.

His health is fine. (He had the company doctor examine him, that way he didn't have to pay the bill.)

I am young and pretty and full of life, but I am lonely. He says if I want to see a movie I should go without him, but it's no fun going alone.

I can just see myself ten years from now getting a divorce. Can you help me?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Fill in that communication gap with some straight talk. He's using his "work" as an excuse to isolate himself. Insist on counseling. And if he ducks that, you go alone. Your frustrations could lead to something worse than boredom.

DEAR ABBY: Over the years, my sister, who lives in another state, has been writing me letters that are filled with nothing but her illnesses, the deaths of her friends (when I don't even know) and any gossip about the family that is bad. She even rehashes the world situation, dwelling on the doom and gloom. After reading one of her letters I am so depressed I just sit and cry. I have written to her, asking her to please stop sending me such depressing letters, but it hasn't helped.

I don't want to sever our relationship completely, but I don't know how else to deal with her. I never write depressing letters to anyone. I am a happy-go-lucky person by nature, but could spread plenty of gloom if I wanted to.

I have tried not answering her letters, but she doesn't need a letter to answer. She writes once a week regardless. Please tell me what to do.

ANOTHER DAY RUINED
DEAR RUINED: If you want to let your sister know you mean business, return her letters UNOPENED. She may be hurt and shocked, but I promise you, she'll not write any more depressing letters after that.

DEAR ABBY: A reader thought it would look "ridiculous" for a 47-year-old father to be best man at his son's wedding when the bride had selected a 21-year-old girl to be her maid of honor. I wonder what that reader would have thought of this situation: When I was 14 years old, I was asked to be the godmother for my new-born cousin. The godfather was my 70-year-old grandfather.

Billingham wins 13th
Reds, Mets split twinbill

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati pitcher Jack Billingham says he has nothing against hitters. He says he wouldn't be where he is today—which is 13-5—without the advice of two hitters who changed his luck. Billingham defied the hitters and a Friday the 13th superstition with a two-hit, 2-1 victory over the New York Mets, which saw the Reds' righthander record his 13th win by retiring the last 13 batters in a row.

Morton leaves Cowboy camp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Competing against Roger Staubach for the Dallas Cowboys' starting quarterback assignment is a challenge Craig Morton can live with. But playing under what he calls an unacceptable contract is another matter. Morton, one of Dallas' ace signal-callers, walked out of the Cowboy camp Friday and demanded to be traded after failing to agree to contract terms. "It's a hard thing, the most difficult decision of my life," Morton said. "It's not a matter of play me or trade me. It's strictly a matter of a contract I can live with."

He said the deadlock involves "security and definitely includes money. I feel I'm of great value to the team and ought to be paid accordingly." Tex Schramm, Dallas general manager, said Morton had requested terms which the club was unprepared to meet. No details were announced. "That he raised the issue at this time came as a complete surprise to me," Schramm said. "I'm still hopeful that Craig will change his mind. He did ask me to pursue the possibility of a trade but, if this did not prove feasible, he indicated that he was prepared to go into private business."

Coach Tom Landry had implemented various combinations of Morton and Staubach before designating Staubach the No.1 quarterback. Staubach was sidelined most of the 1972 season with a shoulder injury but recovered to start the National Conference title game against Washington last year after Morton had directed the team most of the season.

Morton, whose style is to throw from the pocket, emphasized his decision was not affected by having to compete with Staubach—a crowd-pleaser who bolsters his passing game with scrambling tactics—for the starting quarterback slot. "That's not it," Morton said. "I'd love to compete against Roger."

Babe Ruth minor tournament set

The Fayette Babe Ruth minor league tournament, a single-elimination affair, will start at 4 p.m. Monday at Rossmann Field. Games will be played Monday through Friday at 4 p.m., with the final set for 1 p.m. Saturday. Jeffersonville and Wilson's will start the tourney Monday. Other first round games include Girtons vs. Bloomington, Tuesday; and Medics vs. Willis, Wednesday. Thursday, the Jeffersonville-Wilson's winner meets Sabina, and Friday, the winners of Tuesday's and Wednesday's games will meet.

Single Girl wins trot at Scioto

Single Girl, Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Kelley's 5-year-old trotting mare, won the first race Friday night at Scioto Downs in 2:04.3. Rick Kelley drove the mare to her second win in eight starts this season. Single Girl paid $27.20, $15.40 and $7.60 to successful bettors. Single Girl was the first half of the Daily Double combination of 9 and 1, which paid $48.20. The Washington C.H. trotter, whose other win was two weeks ago, now has two wins, a third and two fourths in right races this year.

Killbuck Mary wins Scioto Downs feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Killbuck Mary charged into the lead in the stretch to win the featured race at Scioto Downs Friday night for her seventh victory in seven starts this season. The winner paid $3.60, $2.80 and $2.40. Keystone Mite, finished second by a half-length, returned $4.40 and $3.40, while Oppy was worth $3.40 for show.

Yankees win 2nd round in Friday golf league

The Yankees won the second round championship of the Friday night Golf League last night at Washington Country Club. They also won the first round title. The Yankees blasted the Dodgers 13½-6½ to edge ahead of the Reds, who beat the Pirates 11½-8½. The Cubs and Mets tied 10-10. Doug Dye's 39 was the best score of the evening. Third round play begins next week. RESULTS YANKEES — Doug Dye 39-3; Irwin Reeves 46-2½; Richard Wintringham 49-1½; Chester Brown 43-3; Ray French 51-3½; Total 13½. DODGERS — Howard Miller 41-1; Frank Reno 47-1½; Horace Jacobs 50-2½; Ernie Stanforth 47-1; Paul Maughmer 54-½; Total 6½. REDS — Jim Vess (win by forfeit) -

"It all started in the playoffs and the World Series last October," said Billingham, whose career-high is 13 wins. "Roberto Clemente and Joe Rudi both came up to me after I pitched and told me that with my equipment I had to win more than 12 games. They said I can't be a .500 pitcher. That got me to thinking," said Billingham, who entered his 13th season with a 44-44 career record. Billingham moved past San Franbullish linebacker, ended a three-month contract dispute by agreeing to a multiyear pact with the club. Terms were not disclosed but the nine-season veteran had been negotiating for a three-year agreement worth $100,000 per year. Philadelphia linebacker Bob Creech underwent surgery on his right knee Friday night after he suffered torn ligaments earlier in the day at the team's camp. A team spokesman said Creech will be sidelined for 12 weeks.

Weiskopf clinging to one-stroke lead

TROON, Scotland (AP) — Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller may carve their feats into the record books Saturday in their head-to-head clash

Murcer hits three homers in 5-0 win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Bobby Murcer expected to get busted by Gene Garber. And he was. But what Garber didn't expect was that he'd get busted right back—for the third time. In the first inning Friday night, Murcer hit a three-run homer. And in the sixth he connected again, this time with a leadoff shot. Then came the eighth inning. With one out and the bases empty, up came Murcer again—and down he went as a fastball sailed at his head. Up he got and then around he went . . . around the bases, that is, with his third homer of the game, the final touch in the New York Yankees' 5-0 victory over the Kansas City Royals. In the rest of the American League action, the Texas Rangers beat the Boston Red Sox 4-1, the Cleveland Indians clubbed the Minnesota Twins 11-2, the Oakland A's shellacked the Milwaukee Brewers 13-4, the Detroit Tigers clawed the California Angels 8-2 and the Chicago White Sox edged the Baltimore Orioles 3-2. "I don't consider myself to be a home-run hitter, even though I've hit 20 or more every year," said Murcer, who has 18 this season. Then, with a grin, he added: "I don't tell that to Lee McPhail at contract time."

Mixed doubles tennis to start

Ten teams will begin play in a newly-formed mixed doubles tennis league Monday night at Washington Senior High School, according to city recreation director Chuck Wallace. Matches will be held starting at 6 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays. After a six-match schedule is completed, there will be an elimination tournament expected to last until mid-August. Mrs. Hali Hess is the league coordinator.

Post 25 matched with Portsmouth

Washington C.H. Post 25 will play Portsmouth in the first round of the District 7 American Legion baseball tournament at Hillsboro next Saturday. To draw was held Friday night at Chillicothe Post 62, with eight teams participating. Post 25 and Portsmouth will meet at 7 p.m. Other first round matchups are Hillsboro-Greenfield, 10 a.m.; Ironton-Chillicothe 757, 1 p.m.; and Waverly-Chillicothe 62.4 p.m. If Post 25 wins its first game, it plays at 7 p.m. July 22. cisco's Ron Bryant as the holder of the National League's best record. Bryant is 13-6. Both appear as likely candidates for the National League All-Star team. His decision in the opener over Tom Seaver, 9-5, gave the Reds a split of a doubleheader with the Mets, who took the second game 7-5. Seaver, in losing his 12th career verdict to the Reds' in 20 games, expressed his frustration by kicking the club water cooler.

In transactions, the Atlanta Falcons dealt wide receiver Ray Jarvis to the Buffalo Bills for an undisclosed draft choice; the St. Louis Cardinals acquired defensive tackle Doug Moores from the New Orleans Saints for a future draft selection; the Oakland Raiders traded running back Don Highsmith to the Green Bay Packers for running backs Bob Hudson and Demery Brandon and Dallas swapped linebacker Ralph Coleman to the Houston Oilers for a future draft pick.

for the 102nd British Open golf championship. The two golfers were locked in what seemed like a two-man charge for the coveted and historic trophy over Troon's 7,064-yard layout along Scotland's wet and windy West Coast.

Weiskopf, the skinny 30-year-old from Columbus, Ohio, who has won three U.S. events recently, and Miller, the U.S. Open champion, were only one shot apart as they approached the final round.

Weiskopf held the lead after three rounds with a 10-underpar 206 and Miller was nudging him with a 207. They maintained a furious pace throughout the first three days and when they play today the winner may need a record score.

Bert Yancey in third with a 211, Brian Barnes and Neil Coles of Britain each had a 213 and Lanny Wadkins, another U.S. tourist, was at 214. Jack Nicklaus fell out of contention with a 215 while Arnold Palmer, who set the British Open record with a 276 the last time this classic was played at Troon in 1962, had a 218. Defending champion Lee Trevino's bid to win the open for the third straight time wavered as he ballooned to a 221 after taking three bogeys in a string of four holes on the back nine.

Miller took a two-stroke lead after Weiskopf double-bogeyed the ninth. Weiskopf matched Miller's bird on the 11th, trimmed the lead to one with another birdie on the 13th where he pitched to 18 inches of the cup and then pulled ahead when he surged home.

Weiskopf missed the green on the next three holes but managed to par them and then slipped one stroke ahead when Miller bogeyed the 15th and 18th.

"He just made one bad pitch," said the Reds' Pete Rose.

That pitch was a hanging curve to Joe Morgan, who slammed it into the seats for his 12th home run—five short of the Reds' all-time total by a second baseman.

"I don't know what the pitch was," said Morgan, who accounted for the winning run after Rose had singled in Darrell Chaney in the deciding third inning.

Rose, who boosted his season average six points to .321 with five hits in nine at-bats, has now hit safely in 18 of the last 19 games. He has 33 hits in 73 trips during the stretch for a .452 average.

The Mets struck early in the second game, touching Cincinnati starter Jim McGlothlin for four runs in one-third of an inning. Wayne Garrett settled things in the eighth with a tworun single that made it 7-3.

It was the Mets first win over the Reds in six meetings this year. Ray Sadecki got the win, his first since August 4, 1972.

The Reds send lefty Tom Hall, 5-4, against George Stone, 4-3, tonight.

82 golfers have shot at Robinson

ROBINSON, Ill. (AP) — What PGA officials say is probably the greatest stampede for a tournament championship on record is taking place at the $125,000 Shrine-Robinson Golf Open.

Six players entering today's third round are tied for the lead and an unbelievable 76 others are within six shots of it.

"In simple terms," said one PGA official, "it means that with two rounds to go, a total of 82 players could win it. Ever hear of such a thing before?"

A sudden-death playoff Sunday is being taken for granted. If it develops, it will be the fifth straight year a playoff has been needed at Robinson to decide the winner—a PGA record.

Jammed into the lead at 137—five under par for the well-groomed Crawford Country Club course—were unknowns Mike Morley, 27, of Minot, N.D., and Bobby Greenwood, 34, of Cookeville, Tenn. and the four better-known pros, defending champion Grier Jones, Dean Beman, Babe Hiskey and Charles Coody, who is seeking his first victory since winning the 1971 Masters.

Groves wins Ohio Am

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — The next stop for Ohio Amateur golf champion Steve Groves is the Western Amateur and after that it's on to the Florida mini pro tour for the Lancaster long hitter. "I don't plan to try for the national pro tour next 1974," said Groves after struggling to a wind-whipped 75 Friday for a 2-hole total of 282, six under par for the Findlay Country Club course. That easily gave the Ohio State All-American his first state amateur crown, a sevenshot margin over University of South Florida senior Pat Lindsey. Lindsey, from Maumee, posted a final 74 to slip around Dave Zabel, the 19-year-old from Beachwood playing in his Ohio Amateur.

Zabell took a horrendous nine on the ninth hole, turned the front side in 44 and skied to an 83 for 293. He tied Columbus veteran Don Albert for third place. Albert closed with a 76.

Deadlocked for fifth were two time state high school king Ralph Guarasci of Columbus and Sylvania veteran Denny Spencer at 294. Guarasci, 16, playing in his first state amateur, and Spencer had 74s.

Good Hope clouts Mt. Sterling, 18-3

Montreal, Atlanta clout eight homers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was too hot and muggy in Atlanta to do any running, so the Braves and Expos did a lot of trotting—home run trotting.

Eight National League baseballs exploded behind Atlanta's walls and after six hours of bombing, the teams negotiated a Friday truce.

It was decided Montreal would take the first game 11-7 and Atlanta would come back for the second 15-6.

Police said sheriff's deputies were busy Friday as they investigated 10 accidents in the city-county area. No one was injured, although some of the mishaps were potentially serious.

Firemen were summoned to the scene of an accident on Lewis Road by the Sheriff's Department after an auto caught fire as it was being pulled from a fence by a tow truck.

Mark A. Martin 20, of Greenfield, who was driving, was cited for reckless operation after he failed to negotiate a left curve on Lewis Road near U.S. Rt. 38. He caught the right berm of the road and lost control as the car crossed to the left side and struck a fence. A spark set off gasoline running from the gas tank, setting the rear of the car ablaze.

The Washington Fire Department was called to extinguish the flames. Damage was extensive.

According to the police report, the young girl said she saw two boys approaching in the alley off Court Street where the car was parked. She hid beneath the dash board, and moments later the windshield was shattered.

It is not known whether shots were actually fired, or if some object was thrown at the car. The boys were seen running down the alley toward East Street.

John Bane, manager of the Washington Park pool, reported that he caught a 9-year-old trying to spend a marked dollar bill that had been taken from the pool locker room.

Some Cancers Yield to Drugs

More and more statistics point to the fact that some cancers are yielding with greater frequency to the attack by new and often spectacular chemicals. Patients with leukemia, cancer of the breast, cancer of the cervix, and Hodgkin's disease are being maintained in good health by single or combined chemicals. Drugs like methotrexate and one known as 5-FU are but two of the many drugs that are used to destroy cancer cells in some parts of the body. Impressive statistics that are forthcoming from hospital centers emphasize the need for early recognition and early intensive heroic treatment. The combination of early detection and the aggressive use of these drugs is most encouraging.

Sickle cell anemia, an inherited condition, is receiving concentrated attention. Before ten years ago, this disease was casually taken for granted, and even overlooked, in research projects. Today, the sickling, or crescent-shaped, deformities of the red blood cells are considered in their proper perspective of inherited diseases. At Emory University in Atlanta, Dr. A. J. Sophianopoulos has been using special drugs with anti-sickling properties to re-establish the shape and the functioning capacity of red blood cells. While this work is going on, geneticists are hard at work trying to discover why sickle cell anemia is so prevalent in particular groups of people. Eventually it is hoped that, by genetic counseling and even genetic manipulation, sickle cell anemia will be eliminated. Until then, these drugs may be effective in reducing the devastating aspects of this disease.

Bleeding from the esophagus, the tube that brings food from the mouth to the stomach, is a vexing medical problem.

Enlarged veins, or varices, not unlike varicose veins, are known to be responsible for some types of esophageal bleeding. At the University of Tokyo Hospital, a new and spectacular operation is being tried to control extensive bleeding from the esophagus.

Dr. Mitsuru Sugiura and Dr. Shunji Futagawa have developed and are using a surgical technique for some patients whose lives are threatened by these enlarged and bleeding veins.

Almost 100 patients have had this operation, with spectacular success. Surgeons everywhere are watching with great enthusiasm these early reports being universally accepted and duplicating this two-stage operation.

Scandal hearings

President did not find out about the coverup until March 21, the date Dean says he told Nixon of "a cancer growing on the presidency."

Dean swears he told Nixon about some aspects of the cover-up much earlier, and that the President seemed generally aware as early as Sept. 15, 1972, that efforts were being made to obstruct the course of justice.

Moore said Dean gave him no hint of having told the President before March 21, although he said Dean himself seemed increasingly concerned about the Watergate matter in the preceding weeks.

He said Dean told him of G. Gordon Liddy's original wiretapping and kidnapping scheme as early as March 1 or before, and that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former campaign aide Jeb Stuart Magruder had listened to Liddy's schemes and rejected them.

Moore said Dean told him later, around March 15, that Magruder had lied to the grand jury investigating the wiretapping and that he, Dean, intended to tell the truth if called before the panel.

Moore swore he didn't realize the truth until March 19, when Dean told him that Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt was threatening to disclose earlier White House crimes if not paid for his silence.

Ervin seemed disbelieving, asking Moore if he had read a long list of news stories giving accounts of links between the wiretapping and the Nixon campaign.

Moore said he had read them when they were published, but said he was satisfied with Nixon's public assurances that an investigation by Dean had cleared everyone in the White House and the administration.

Hughey Post faces charges

City police officers were called to assist the agents at the Legion Home.

Agents indicated to police officers that the charges would be filed.

County school board to meet

Adoption of a 1974 budget and consideration of a resolution of need for a bond issue to fund a middle school top the agenda for the Fayette County Board of Education meeting Tuesday in the board's offices.

In addition to the probable approval of the resolution of need, the board also is expected to enter a formal agreement with an architect for the proposed middle school.

Several teacher resignations will be acted upon, and Superintendent Guy Foster will recommend the hiring of several teachers and coaches.

The board also will receive bids and let contracts for gasoline, fuel oil, coal and other materials, and set dates for receiving bids on various food items, insurance and other items.

Use of energy up alarmingly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Few people realize the enormous environmental impact of the nation's accelerating use of energy, the chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality told Congress this week.

Russell Train warned that to change the trend from an energy spurge to energy conservation would require vast alterations in the lifestyle of most Americans.

Train's analysis of the use of energy and the related environmental punishment was given to a joint hearing on energy conservation held by two House committees. During the week, a half-dozen congressional committees were probing some aspect of the energy crisis.

He noted that the use of energy has shot up alarmingly—30-fold since 1850 and, in the last two decades, at a rate twice that of the population growth.

"Although many people are aware of environmental damages from particular energy activities," Train said, "few realize the degree to which total energy systems affect the environment."

"Converting fossil and nuclear fuels into energy leads to air pollution, water pollution, creation of solid wastes, land disruption and aesthetic degradation," Train said.

The environment is damaged by car air pollution, thermal discharges to lakes and streams and the destruction of millions of acres of land by mining.

"Energy systems were the largest source of the 264 million tons of pollutants emitted into the air in 1970," Train said.

Cars and other forms of transportation caused over half.

KIRKPATRICK FUNERAL HOME
Dear friends,
The funeral of every person, no matter how humble was his state in life, is just as meaningful and necessary to his survivors as the funeral of a well-known personage is to his bereaved. Every man is equally important in the eyes of God. And who but God is to say which ones loved Him more, or served Him better.
Respectfully,
Richard Kirkpatrick
